The Lyfe Place Aesthetics

A premium cosmetic-surgery and aesthetics partnership, in one read.

Medbury Healthcare · KP Plastics · Consult for Africa | For the partnership meeting, July 2026

01 / THE IDEA

A practice you already run, with a platform behind it.

A surgery-led premium aesthetics business, built on Dr Chinwe Kpaduwa's plastic-surgery practice, Medbury's site, capital and patient base, and Consult for Africa running the day-to-day. Cosmetic and plastic surgery is the anchor, with injectables, skin and dermatology alongside. It is not a new venture to learn; it formalises a practice that already exists, at a scale none of the three partners reaches alone.

02 / THE PARTNERSHIP

Three partners, complementary roles.

Partner	Stake	What they bring
Medbury Healthcare Group	51%	The site, the capital, and the patient and corporate base.
KP Plastics (Dr Kpaduwa)	34%	The practice, capability, credentials and following. The clinical anchor.
Consult for Africa	15%	Structures the partnership and runs the operation.

03 / THE THEATRE MODEL

Consult at The Lyfe Place, operate at a partner hospital.

The Lyfe Place in Lekki holds the consulting rooms and a procedure room, for consultations, injectables, skin, dermatology and minor procedures. Major surgery is done at a partner hospital's theatre under a use-of-facilities agreement, so the host provides the theatre, anaesthesia, recovery, overnight beds and an ICU backstop. This is the lightest on capital and the safest for post-op care. A standalone theatre of our own can follow once the surgical lists are consistently full.

04 / THE ECONOMICS

Cash-pay, high-value, and it already has patients.

Headline	Figure
Start-up capital	about NGN 260M (partner-theatre base, includes a 20% contingency)
Revenue	about NGN 1.66Bn by Year 3, rising to about NGN 2.1Bn by Year 5
Steady EBITDA margin	about 31 to 32%, with a full and honest cost load
Payback	inside two years
Indicative value (base)	about NGN 1.7Bn; stakes worth about 877 / 585 / 258 (NGN M)

The business is cash-pay and launches into an existing base, Dr Kpaduwa's following, the Lyfe Place patients and Medbury's corporate clients, so the diary fills faster than a cold start. Full costs, capital and projections are in the detailed model.

05 / WHAT WE DECIDE TOGETHER

A few decisions, made together.

- Scope: surgery-led, with injectables, skin and dermatology alongside.
- The brand: a JV brand with Dr Kpaduwa as named clinical principal.
- Cover when she travels: a resident clinical lead plus associate surgeons.
- The theatre: a partner hospital to start, a standalone of our own later.
- The split: 51 / 34 / 15 as proposed, to confirm.

06 / NEXT STEPS

From this read to a signed partnership.

- Settle the questions above and confirm the split at the meeting.
- C4A drafts the commercial term sheet, then the shareholder agreement.
- Incorporate, secure the theatre partner, fit out, recruit, and soft-launch to the Medbury base.
