This curriculum turns the enablement programme from a promise into a syllabus. It sets out, module by module, exactly what the executive directors, the non-executive directors, and management will be able to do by the end of the training, who teaches each part, and how we know it has landed. It is deliberately MECE: every objective sits in one and only one place, and together they cover the whole of what this board and management team need to govern and be governed well. Company law, and CAMA 2020 in particular, runs through it as a spine rather than a single lecture, because directors' duties are not a topic to visit once but the frame around everything a board does.

1. Design principles

Six principles shape the programme.

- Objectives first, content second. Every module is defined by what participants will be able to do, not what will be covered. That is what makes it MECE and what makes it assessable.
- The law is the spine, not a side session. CAMA 2020 and directors' duties are woven through the whole curriculum. A dedicated legal foundation module anchors it, and every other module names the legal duty it engages.
- Two audiences, one system. Directors learn to govern; management learns to be governed well, to report, to escalate, and to feed the board. Some modules are shared so both sides build a common language.
- Taught by practitioners. The law is delivered by two qualified legal practitioners with real board and hospital experience, not from a textbook. The governance craft is delivered by CFA. Nothing is generic.
- Practised on HSH's own instruments. Sessions use HSH's actual board pack, committee report templates, delegation-of-authority schedule, and terms of reference, so people practise on the system they will run.
- Competency, not attendance. The programme ends with a short competency check and a sign-off per cohort, so the board knows the capability is real, not assumed.

2. Who is being trained: the three cohorts

The programme serves three overlapping cohorts. A module is tagged to the cohort(s) it is built for.

Cohort	Who	Focus
A. The full board	All eight directors: the four executive directors (incl. the Medical Director) and the four non-executive directors	Governing well: duties, the operating model, reading and challenging, conduct, fair process
B. Committee chairs	The directors who chair or co-chair a committee	Everything in Cohort A, plus the craft of running a committee, setting agendas, reaching and recording decisions, and reporting to the board
C. Management and the secretariat	The Medical Director (as executive lead), heads of function, the Afya operational leads, and the Company Secretary	Being governed well: reporting by exception, using the templates, escalation, the delegation-of-authority in daily practice, and the statutory/company-secretarial duties

The Medical Director sits in Cohort A (as a director) and interfaces with Cohort C (as the executive who reports in). This dual position is taught explicitly, because it is the clearest worked example of governing versus managing.

3. The faculty and who teaches what

Three teaching voices, each to their strength. The two legal practitioners together carry the law end to end; CFA carries the governance craft and the hospital-specific model.

Faculty	Brings	Leads (modules)
Barr. Gesiye Otuogha	Corporate law and statutory framework; CAMA 2020 in depth; directors' duties, liability, and minority protection; regulatory and compliance grounding	M1 (CAMA foundations), M2 (duties and liability), and the legal input into M4, M7
Barr. Osahon Omoruyi (Senior Legal Counsel, Evercare Hospital)	Practical board management in a live hospital; company-secretarial practice; compliant meetings and resolutions; the legal side of clinical governance; real hospital cases and pitfalls	M4 (board and committee mechanics, legal), M6 (clinical governance legal interface), co-leads M2, and the management-law session in M10
Consult for Africa (Dr Debo Odulana)	The HSH operating model; board effectiveness; fair process and the two-family dimension; chairing craft; financial oversight for non-specialists; the Afya partnership	M3, M5, M8, M9, and the governance framing of every module

The division is deliberate. The lawyers own the black-letter law and confirm every statutory citation; CFA owns the operating model and the craft. Between Barr. Otuogha and Barr. Omoruyi, the board and management get company law taught end to end, from the Act on the page to the boardroom in practice.

4. The MECE learning-objective framework

The whole capability is decomposed into ten modules across five domains. The domains are mutually exclusive (no objective belongs to two) and collectively exhaustive (together they cover the whole governance task). Each module below lists, in "by the end, participants can..." form, the objectives that define it.

Domain I, Legal and statutory foundations

Module M1, CAMA 2020 and the company as a legal person

Cohort A and C · Lead: Barr. Gesiye Otuogha · ~2.5 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Explain what CAMA 2020 is, why it governs HSH, and how it sits alongside the company's constitution (memorandum and articles) and any shareholders' agreement between the two families.
- Describe HSH's form as a private company limited by shares, and what that form does and does not require of it.
- Identify the company as a separate legal person distinct from its owners, and explain what that separation means for liability, contracts, and property.
- Distinguish the three organs of the company, the members (owners) in general meeting, the board of directors, and management, and state what each can and cannot do.
- Locate the statutory registers and records HSH must keep (members, directors, charges, persons with significant control, minute books) and explain why each exists.
- State HSH's core CAMA filing and return obligations to the Corporate Affairs Commission, and who is accountable for them.

Module M2, Directors' duties, liability, and conduct under the law

Cohort A and B · Lead: Barr. Gesiye Otuogha with Barr. Osahon Omoruyi · ~3 hours

By the end, participants can:

- State each of a director's general duties under CAMA 2020, to act in good faith and in the best interests of the company, to exercise power for a proper purpose, to exercise reasonable care, skill, and diligence, to avoid conflicts of interest, and not to make secret profit or accept improper benefits, and give a hospital example of each.
- Explain the duty of care, skill, and diligence in practical terms: preparation, attendance, attention, and the standard expected of a director in their position.
- Describe the statutory rules on a director's interest in a contract or arrangement, and the requirement to declare it.
- Explain the rules and risks around loans to directors and related-party dealings, and how the board keeps them clean.
- Describe personal liability: when a director can be personally exposed (including for reckless or fraudulent trading and for breach of duty), and the everyday conduct that keeps a diligent director safe.
- Explain the protection of minority owners under CAMA (relief from unfairly prejudicial conduct) and why, in a two-family company, this matters to how the board must behave toward both sides.
- State the position on directors' and officers' insurance and indemnities, and what the board should put in place.

Statutory citations for M1 and M2 are finalised by the legal faculty. CFA's curriculum sets the objectives; Barr. Otuogha and Barr. Omoruyi own the black-letter references and case examples.

Domain II, The board's role and the operating model

Module M3, Governing versus managing, and the HSH operating model

Cohort A and C · Lead: Consult for Africa · ~2 hours

By the end, participants can:

- State the difference between governing and managing, and apply the "which hat am I wearing" test to a live example.
- Describe the HSH two-tier governance architecture: the quarterly board, the five board committees, and the monthly Afya-HSH Governance Committee beneath it.
- Explain the four core jobs of the HSH board (set direction, oversee performance and risk, hold management to account, protect the owners and the mission), and locate each in the operating model.
- Explain how a board directs a complex hospital meeting only quarterly, through delegation, reporting, and committees working continuously underneath it.
- Describe the reserved matters the board keeps for itself and read the delegation-of-authority schedule to say who decides what.
- (Management) Explain what the board needs from management, and what management can expect the board not to reach into.

Domain III, Board and committee mechanics

Module M4, Running compliant, effective meetings

Cohort A, B and C · Lead: Barr. Osahon Omoruyi with the Company Secretary · ~2.5 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Describe the lifecycle of a board or committee meeting: notice, agenda, quorum, conduct, decision, and minutes, and the legal minimum for each.
- Explain quorum and what happens without it, and how notice and proxies work for board and general meetings.
- Distinguish the types of decision, ordinary and special resolutions and written resolutions, and know which matters need which.
- Explain what proper minutes must record, why the decision and its reasons are minuted, and the legal status of the minute book.
- Use HSH's agenda, minutes, and action-log templates correctly.
- (Company Secretary) State the statutory duties of the company secretary under CAMA and run the meeting cycle to that standard.

Module M5, Reading the board pack and asking good questions

Cohort A · Lead: Consult for Africa · ~2 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Navigate the consolidated HSH board pack and know what each section is for.

- Read the management accounts and dashboard well enough to spot variances against plan, and ask the four standing questions (why different from plan, one-off or trend, what is being done, what would make it worse).
- Distinguish reporting by exception from reporting everything, and insist on the former.
- Read a risk summary and a committee report and identify what needs a board decision.
- Recognise a report that does not reconcile or that hides a problem, and know how to challenge it constructively.

Domain IV, Assurance, risk, and the hospital-specific dimensions

Module M6, Clinical governance, quality, and safety, from the board's seat

Cohort A, and the Quality and Clinical Governance Committee in depth · Lead: Consult for Africa with Barr. Osahon Omoruyi · ~2 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Explain what clinical governance is and why the board, not only the clinicians, is accountable for the quality and safety of care.
- Describe the board's line of sight into clinical quality: the metrics, the incidents and their review, and the escalation of serious clinical events.
- Explain the legal and duty-of-candour dimensions of a clinical incident and the board's role when one occurs (Barr. Omoruyi, from hospital practice).
- Distinguish the Medical Director's role as executive clinical lead who reports in from the committee's role in independently assuring the work.
- Read a quality and safety report and ask the right questions of it.

Module M7, Financial oversight, audit, and internal control

Cohort A, and the Finance and the Audit and Risk Committees in depth · Lead: Consult for Africa, with legal input from Barr. Otuogha · ~2 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Explain the board's financial oversight duty: budget approval, monitoring against it, cash and working capital, and the annual financial statements.
- Describe the purpose of an external audit and of internal control, and the audit committee's role in assuring both.
- Explain the CAMA obligations around financial statements, audit, and annual returns at a level a non-finance director can act on (legal input, Barr. Otuogha).
- Read the key financial reports and identify a going-concern or working-capital concern.
- Distinguish the Finance committee's forward, decision-making role from the Audit and Risk committee's independent, assurance role.

Domain V, Conduct, fairness, relationships, and leadership

Module M8, Conflicts, fair process, and the two-family board

Cohort A · Lead: Consult for Africa, with legal grounding from Barr. Otuogha · ~2 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Identify a conflict of interest or a related-party matter, declare it, and apply recusal correctly.
- Explain the register of interests and how the Company Secretary maintains it.

- Apply fair-process discipline: everyone heard, reasons explained, decisions for the company, and support once decided.
- Explain why, in a two-family company, fair process is not a courtesy but the mechanism that keeps the board legitimate and protects both sides under the law.
- Disagree on substance without making it personal, and hold a difficult decision together across the two families.

Module M9, Chairing and committee leadership

Cohort B · Lead: Consult for Africa, with Barr. Osahon Omoruyi on compliant chairing · ~2.5 hours

By the end, participants can:

- Set a committee agenda with the Company Secretary and the relevant executives, so the committee spends its time on what matters.
- Run a meeting to time, draw out every voice, prevent domination, and move the group to a clear decision.
- Reach and record a decision properly, including handling a declared conflict and a recusal in the chair.
- Co-chair fairly (as on the Finance, Investment and Operations Committee), including escalating a genuine deadlock to the full board rather than forcing it.
- Present a one-page committee report to the board and flag what needs a board decision.

Module M10, The management interface: reporting, escalation, and the Afya relationship

Cohort C, with a joint session with Cohort A · Lead: Consult for Africa, with Barr. Osahon Omoruyi on management's legal duties · ~2.5 hours

By the end, participants can:

- (Management) Prepare a report by exception against target using the HSH templates, and know what escalates, to whom, and when.
- (Management) Operate within the delegation-of-authority schedule and know which decisions must go up.
- (Management) Explain management's own legal and record-keeping duties in supporting the board (Barr. Omoruyi).
- Describe how information flows between management, the Afya-HSH Governance Committee, the board committees, and the board, and how the board keeps an independent line of sight over Afya's delivery.
- (Joint) Build the shared language between board and management about what good reporting and good challenge look like.

5. Coverage check: the framework is MECE

The ten modules map cleanly onto the five domains, and the five domains together exhaust the governance task without overlap:

Domain	Modules	Nothing else belongs here because...
I. Legal and statutory foundations	M1, M2	all black-letter company-law and duties content is consolidated here and referenced elsewhere, never re-taught
II. The board's role and operating model	M3	the "what a board is for" content lives once, here
III. Board and committee mechanics	M4, M5	the "how meetings run and how packs are read" content lives here
IV. Assurance, risk, hospital dimensions	M6, M7	the two assurance lenses, clinical and financial, are separated cleanly and completely
V. Conduct, fairness, relationships, leadership	M8, M9, M10	the human and leadership craft, and the management interface, complete the set

Every learning objective in section 4 sits in exactly one module. No capability the board or management needs falls outside the five domains.

6. Delivery schedule, mapped to the six-week timeline

Indicative, sequenced around the board calendar and the September Board meeting. Legal foundations come first so every later module can lean on them.

Week	Sessions	Cohorts	Faculty
1	M1 CAMA foundations; M3 governing vs managing	A, C	Otuogha; CFA
2	M2 duties and liability; M4 compliant meetings	A, B, C	Otuogha + Omoruyi; Omoruyi + Company Secretary
3	M5 reading the pack; M7 financial oversight	A	CFA (+ Otuogha)
4	M6 clinical governance; M8 conflicts and fair process	A	CFA + Omoruyi; CFA
5	M9 chairing (committee chairs); M10 management interface	B, C + joint	CFA + Omoruyi
6	Competency check, handover of the Handbook, and a live mock committee meeting	A, B, C	All

The optional supported first governance cycle then runs across the first quarter of real meetings, where faculty attend and coach quietly against live use.

7. Method: how each module is taught

- Working sessions, not lectures. Each module pairs a short teach with a worked HSH example, a discussion, and a practice task on the real templates.
- A live mock in week 6. The programme ends with a simulated committee meeting: a real-looking agenda and pack, a chair chairing, a declared conflict to handle, and a decision to reach and minute. It is the single best test that the learning has landed.
- Case-based legal teaching. Barr. Omoruyi brings anonymised hospital cases; Barr. Otuogha grounds each in the Act. Directors remember a case far longer than a section number.
- A pocket reference per cohort. Each participant leaves with the relevant part of the Board and Committee Handbook and a one-page duties-and-conflicts card.

8. Competency check and sign-off

The programme ends with a light, non-punitive competency check per cohort, so the board can be assured the capability is real.

- Directors (Cohort A): a short scenario exercise (a conflict to spot and handle, a variance to question, a decision to frame) plus a self-assessment against the M1–M8 objectives.
- Committee chairs (Cohort B): chairing the week-six mock to a simple rubric (agenda, time, voices heard, conflict handled, decision reached and recorded).
- Management and secretariat (Cohort C): producing a compliant exception report and running one meeting cycle to standard against the M4 and M10 objectives.

The Company Secretary records completion. The People and Remuneration Committee receives a one-page assurance that each cohort has met its objectives, with any gaps and the plan to close them.

9. What each participant can do at the end: the promise in one line

- Every director understands their duties under CAMA, can read and challenge a board pack, handles a conflict correctly, and governs without reaching into management.
- Every committee chair can set an agenda, run a compliant meeting, reach and record a decision, and report to the board.
- Management and the Company Secretary can report by exception, escalate correctly, run a compliant meeting cycle, and keep the board's statutory records to standard.

That is the board and management educated end to end: the law from Barr. Otuogha, the practice from Barr. Omoruyi, and the operating model and craft from Consult for Africa.
