

Entity map and naming

Five entities. Who is who, and who pays whom.

01 / THE FIVE ENTITIES

Use these names, in these words, everywhere.

	Name to use	Legal entity	Where	What it is
1	Al Salam	Al Salam Hospitals Group	Egypt	A destination hospital, and one of the assets in Alameda's portfolio. Earns the treatment revenue. Not a party to the joint venture and does not need to be
2	Alameda	Alameda Financial Limited	Egypt	A healthcare asset management company with Al Salam in its portfolio. It also holds hospital management contracts, including an existing SPV with Medbury in Port Harcourt . Joint venture shareholder, and the conduit guaranteeing conversion fee remittances
3	Medbury Healthcare	Medbury Medical Services Limited	Nigeria	The Nigerian host. Joint venture shareholder. Owns the brand, Medbury Diagnostics and Medbury Pharmaceuticals, and owns The Lyfe Place outright
4	The Lyfe Place, Abuja	To be incorporated	Nigeria	Facility owner. Holds the head lease and the fit-out and leases space to every tenant including the Conversion Clinic. Wholly owned by Medbury Healthcare
5	The Conversion Clinic	To be incorporated	Nigeria	The SPV. Medbury Healthcare and Alameda. A tenant of The Lyfe Place, operating the ground floor conversion clinic

The distinction that matters most is 1 versus 2. Al Salam is a hospital that earns treatment revenue. Alameda is the asset manager that operates it and others, and is building a conversion clinic to feed its portfolio. They must never be written as one party because they carry different obligations, but the agreement's description of Alameda is accurate, and the standing it gives Alameda over Al Salam is what makes the remittance guarantee credible.

02 / NOT PRINCIPALS

Contracted parties and internal business units.

Name	Status	What it is
Mezo Health	Contracted	Facility manager for the whole Abuja entity. 6% of campus revenue plus a 10% incentive on gross operating profit, capped at 10% of revenue
Consult for Africa	Contracted	Diagnostics phase, interior design and fit-out delivery. Hands over to Mezo Health at practical completion
Medbury Diagnostics	Business unit	Of Medbury Healthcare. Laboratory and imaging. Sold as part of the facility, not billed as a tenant
Medbury Pharmaceuticals	Business unit	Of Medbury Healthcare. Same treatment
Medlyfe	Prospective tenant	Longevity and infusion, guest chalet. Conventional lease
The Cloister	Product	The membership sold to first-floor plaza members and patients. Not an entity

03 / THE FLOWS

Who pays whom, and for what.

From	To	For what	Amount
Al Salam	The Conversion Clinic	Conversion fee, remitted through Alameda as conduit	15% of treatment invoice
The Conversion Clinic	Alameda	BD and patient desk fee, payable only out of fees actually received	10% of conversion fees
The Conversion Clinic	Medbury Healthcare	Host and brand fee	10% of conversion fees
The Conversion Clinic	The Lyfe Place	Rent and service charge	~NGN 68M a year

Medbury Healthcare and Alameda	The Conversion Clinic	Establishment capital, pro rata	NGN 231M total
The Lyfe Place	The landlord	Head rent	NGN 50M a year
The Lyfe Place	Mezo Health	Management fee	6% plus incentive, capped at 10%
Plaza members	The Lyfe Place	Session fees and membership	~NGN 330M a year
Patients	Medbury Diagnostics and Pharmaceuticals	Tests and prescriptions	100% Medbury Healthcare

Read the first three rows together. The conversion fee flows Al Salam to The Conversion Clinic, and only then does The Conversion Clinic pay Alameda its 10%. Never Al Salam to Alameda and the net onward. If Alameda receives first, it holds the tap and every row below it becomes decorative.

04 / THREE NAMING DEFECTS

In the draft agreement, all needing correction.

Defect	What it says, and why it matters
1 Two different names for the same party	The cover page says ALAMEDIA FINANCIAL LIMITED . The body says ALAMEDA FINANCIAL LIMITED . One of them is wrong and the executed version must be internally consistent
2 The conversion fee is scoped to Al Salam alone	Alameda manages a portfolio, not one hospital, and is building this clinic to feed that portfolio. If the conversion fee names only Al Salam, a patient routed to any other Alameda-managed facility triggers no fee at all. Define the destination as any facility owned, operated, managed or advised by Alameda or its affiliates. This is the single most valuable drafting change available
3 The Company is named as a real estate entity	Clause 1.1 defines the Company as " Allox Kings City Estates Ltd ". That is a real estate company and the wrong vehicle for a clinic. Incorporate a purpose-built healthcare SPV and name it The Conversion Clinic, or a proper trading name for it

Defect 2 is the substantive one, and worth more than the other two combined. Recital 2 is otherwise accurate: Alameda does provide and operate facility management for Al Salam, which is precisely what gives it the standing to procure remittance. Leave it as drafted.

Ask for the Port Harcourt papers before signing this one. Medbury and Alameda already have an SPV together. Whatever was agreed there on equity, fees, funding obligations and dispute resolution is the natural benchmark for Abuja, and how it has actually performed is better evidence of Alameda as a partner than anything in a new agreement. Two structures with the same counterparty also invites arbitrage, so consider aligning or cross-defaulting them.

05 / NAMING RULES

For every document, deck and contract from here.

Rule	Why
Say The Lyfe Place	Not PropCo, not Lyfe Place Abuja PropCo. Where owner and facility must be distinguished, say The Lyfe Place (the facility) and The Lyfe Place Limited (the owner)
Say The Conversion Clinic	Not the SPV, not the Conversion Clinic SPV, not the Alameda SPV. It is a named business, and calling it an SPV in front of a partner makes it sound temporary
Say Medbury Healthcare	Consistently. Not Medbury Healthcare Group in one place and Medbury in another
Never write Alameda / Al Salam	They are different entities with different roles and different obligations. The slash is where the earlier confusion started
Lyfe Place Abuja is the park	The medical park brand, under Medbury Healthcare's Medical Infrastructure Division. The Conversion Clinic and the first-floor plaza are businesses inside it
